DIRECTOR'S THOUGHTS

Jacksonville Centre of the Arts (JCA), a Tapestry of Miracles

In the tapestry of our JCA dance life, I bear witness to beauty unfolding before my eyes. Amidst this awe-inspiring journey, JCA stands as a testament to the miraculous, breaking down barriers, bringing awareness to our culture through dance, and now viewing our relevance on the artistic front.

Daily, I pour my heart into every aspect of our work at JCA. Yet, the world often fails to comprehend that behind the daily operations lies a cavernous void, a longing to bridge the gap of diversity and representation. Like how Disney's portrayal of the Little Mermaid has opened new doors for diverse ethnicities, we continue to capture that spirit at JCA and in Jacksonville. Relevance and significance resound within our walls, resonating with the pursuit of change, awareness, and acceptance.

We, at JCA, were catalysts from the very beginning, pioneers who endeavored to ensure representation in local magnet schools' advanced classes and colleges throughout the United States. We fought as a team to ensure that roles of quality and distinction were not confined to a select few, but rather offered to dancers of every ethnicity in productions like the Nutcrackers and other similar works. Now, as we stand having our own production The Golden Nutcracker, we can meticulously craft a stage where diversity flourishes, where every principal role finds its home within an ethnic dancer. This pursuit transcends the boundaries of race to the power of transformation, change, where acceptance thrives.

Reflection. I am overwhelmed with gratitude watching these blossoming dancers embracing the arts from The Little Primas', Level I, II, III, IV V.A, V.B, and Dance Theatre with the same fervor that consumes me. They are the torchbearers of a new generation that we have proudly ushered into existence. Their journey, intertwined with the miracles that unfold daily at JCA, reinforces my belief in the power of art to pave the way for a future filled with boundless possibilities.

As we step into our 26th recital, I remember the words of my Daddy, the Late Tom Hendrix, "Kee Wee, is it going to be a good show?" I immediately responded, "Yes, Daddy". He immediately responded back, "It better be". In every word, my dad pushed me to power the of perfection. He is no longer with us, in the front row tonight, as he sat next to my mom, Kate and family for 24 years, but I know he's watching my every move from heaven. With grace, I'm pressing onward. Driven by purpose and knowing that within the embrace of the art, representation, inclusion, and a intense work ethic, miracles will continue to abound.

LOVE YOU ALL,
MS. KEZIA
